

The conductor took us to a hall & brought our trunks It was about the same time when I came here before so that it was not a new thing and I felt just as nice as though I had been going to make a call on some old friend. We gave one loud ring & Uncle soon came to the door I just stepped in to see Aunt a minute & told her all that I wanted was to go to sleep. & I slept till Aunt woked me up. The next morning they were all glad to see me & Uncle said that I did better to come than to write. I do not think that I could get into a better place in the world to get rested. Cos Abby is here & I think that I shall like her very much Aunt has given me a nice pretty front Chamber in the third story also the care of her flower bed in yard while I stay She seems to me just as she always does but she says that she is feeble & has not been able to answer your letter says that she would like to have you come down whenever you can. I have seen all the Cousins they have all expressed for you & the rest of the family I am pretty well but have not got over the fatigue of the journey are quite weak a part of the time Uncle says that he is going to take his Gang & carry Abby & I to ride when the weather is pleasant.

I walk about a half an hour after breakfast in the morning. & then work & rest the rest of the day Sarah Beach has been here and visited and returned to Jane. Fanny & Jane are
