

as big a rouse as ever, would he and Lizzy like to have me in the high again and fight the war, Aunt Laura was as fond of it as the rest. I do not say Eliza for fear she will take offence at being mentioned with the children, Laura has the babe been ~~steps~~ any more Dear Eliza I want you to write me a double letter one with all about the folks at home and the other about that romance, it bores me all the time I do want to see it so much, now do write it all to me and I will be so grateful to you and thank you so many times. I want you all to write in the letter I mean the girls as I suppose you will write for Mother, but if Lizzy does not write better than I do I shall not think she is much of a penman, I shall get the office every day for a week to see if you have sent me a letter you must write as soon as you receive this I send you the book Uranian, I should have bought a new one but could not get one nearer than Boston as there were none in town nor the adjoining towns, it is our God it is old but the whole story is there and I thought it would answer the same purpose you will please excuse it, it is a tale of truth, now I must inquire for Aunt Deborah & has she come back yet, she does she do, I do want to see her very much, I should talk for. I should be hurry now than I used to when I went to Temperance Lectures and the Washington meeting with her. Has that Old Boys C. H. & O. R. made love to her yet, ~~the~~ Old Develors are fine fellows but I will not write any more with this kind of pen and by once more inviting you all to come down and by asking you to write as soon as you receive this I will take a review of my letter & it will be in the writing I exclaim O me miserable writer, Please direct your letter to Florence H. Davis to the care of I Winslow at the Hollowell House
This is your friend and well wisher Thos. Davis
