

into the matter, and if you have contracted for them they do not want to be cut up so short.

I thought funny, if you bought logs there, and did not say anything to me about scaling them.

They are surely marked as I have said for I went on to them to see, I scaled for Brown to day 344 Logs which scaled only 24,718 feet almost 14 to the thousand.

Brown is now putting the Canton logs right over ours, I have set a trap for him, and if he is hauling from our territory he cant help falling into it, Now you see if I don't catch him, if he is not walking straight.

We is hauling some very good and some very poor lumber for the Canton folks,

Hannon & Meggins up to night
before last	1160,019 feet
Horace to day	315,531 "
Brown " "	408,584 "
Total	1884,134 "

The logging is just good Has not been so good before this winter.
